Abstract: Investment is a term with several closely related meanings in finance and economics. It refers to the accumulation of some kind of asset in hopes of getting a future return from it. Investment objectives will almost always change for every investor throughout their lives. Capital appreciation might be more important for the young; meanwhile a person entering the golden years might place a greater emphasis on providing income. Whatever the objective, knowing what investment options are out there is extremely important.

Keywords: Interest rate, home loan, financial institution, fixed and floating interest rate, Tax exemption..
