Abstract: In the modern world most dangerous crises is constantly increasing pollution of the environment. The idea of environmental protection is not a new phenomenon; it can be seen in antique civilization. It is stated in Ancient texts that it is each individual's dharma to protect the natural sources such as soil, water, trees and animals that are of great significance to us. In the modern age, the world is influenced by advancement of technology & technologies such as thermal power plants, atomic power plants etc. Global warming & climate change etc. has thus become a global problem.
