

Blockchain Technology in Supply Chain Management

Usha Rajak

Shri G. P. M. Degree College, Vile Parle (E), Mumbai, Maharashtra, India

Abstract: Blockchain is a record of transaction data that relies on a shared ledger. This ledger is inherently tamper-evident and provides a trusted shared and reliable way to record, validate, and view transactions across a complex system with many participants, some of whom may not inherently trust each other. Blockchain is a special type of database management system that has more features than a regular database

Keywords: Blockchain