

Need to Protect Right to Privacy in Today's World of Digital Evidence: An Analysis

Nandkishor B. Bhandari and Margavi Dongre
Shantaram Potdukhe College of Law, Chandrapur, India

Abstract: Right to Privacy not a new concept in India, The Indian Constitution protect privacy under Article 21. The Protection of Privacy is very crucial on modern era of internet. Threat to the concept of privacy found in the new technology, hence that's why data protection becomes very important. Data privacy means when, how, and to exactly what extent the personal data of a consumer can be shared and communicated to others. The Court rejected admitting the evidence that is obtained on the cost of someone's privacy. The new Criminal laws are to come into force on July 1, 2024. If our personal information is stolen, it can be used to harm us.

Keywords: Protection of Privacy