

Goals and Challenges of Social Justice in Sustainable Development of Higher Education: An Assessment

Dr. Anju Sharma

Asst. Prof. HOD (History)

S. S. Jain Subodh Girls PG College, Sanganer, Jaipur, Rajasthan

anjusharma51a@gmail.com

Abstract: The integration of social justice principles into sustainable development within higher education institutions (HEIs) has gained significant attention in recent years. This article explores the goals and challenges of incorporating social justice into the sustainable development of higher education. It examines how HEIs can contribute to achieving inclusive and equitable education by embracing social justice as a core value. Through a review of relevant literature, this article highlights the obstacles to achieving social justice, such as resource inequalities, systemic discrimination, and cultural biases. The article concludes by offering policy recommendations and strategies for overcoming these challenges to ensure that higher education becomes an effective vehicle for promoting sustainable development and social equity.

Keywords: Social justice, sustainable development, higher education, equity, inclusion, challenges, policy recommendations

