

Feminist Exploration in Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie's Novels

Dharaben Harishkumar Joshi¹ and Prof. Prakash Vekaria²

Research Scholar¹ and Guide²

Shri Govind Guru University, Vinzol, India

Abstract: Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, a celebrated Nigerian author, has established herself as a formidable presence in the literary realm, captivating readers with her thought-provoking and evocative narratives that explore the intersections of race, gender, and identity.

Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, a renowned Nigerian author, has gained widespread critical acclaim for her nuanced exploration of African identity, gender dynamics, and women's lived experiences in the postcolonial era. Her novels, including "Purple Hibiscus," "Half of a Yellow Sun," "Americanah," and "The Thing Around Your Neck," delve into the intersectionality of race, gender, and cultural identity, showcasing the complexities and challenges faced by African women in various sociopolitical contexts. This research paper aims to provide a feminist analysis of Adichie's novels, examining how her narratives engage with the intersections of identity, power, and representation from the perspective of African women.

Keywords: Feminist analysis, African identity, gender dynamics, women's lived experiences, intersectionality, race, culture, postcolonial era